

It's no secret: hearing aids cost a lot of money. So why the hefty price tag?

Let's break down the dollars. Some of that money goes toward product costs, like technological research—which equips hearing aids to keep pace with our modern, digital world.

For Miracle-Ear hearing aids, a lot of the money covers important aftercare services, too.

Whether you need to stop in for fittings, cleanings, adjustments or repairs, all of these services are conveniently included in the original cost.

And actually, when you think about it, the daily cost is pretty reasonable.

Hearing your grandkids' stories, your partner's jokes, and your favorite melodies, for just a few bucks a day? Now that sounds pretty amazing.

Learn more about hearing aids and cost: miracle-ear.com